

Critical Curation and Collaboration in Learning

Extra:

CRITICAL CURATION

What Critical Curation is about:

Curation is the means by which valuable Open Educational Resources (OER) and other forms of informal/non-formal learning resources can be found, evaluated, organized and shared.

Critical content curation offers the opportunity to source learning content in dynamic, learner-centred and socially-interactive ways in order to support an inquiry-based pedagogy. It is relevant to both Educators AND learners who, through the Cur8 project, will be encouraged to become digital curators who not only consume information that they find on the internet, but also evaluate and synthesise it to meet learning needs.
